Moving NJ Forward

Navigating the Global Economy

Millions of tons of cargo and tens of thousands of travelers pass through NJ every day on their way to the global marketplace. The State's transportation infrastructure — its airports, seaports, rail systems and highways — are major arteries of international commerce.

People and products from every county are bound for foreign markets. And the shelves of every local business are stocked with products from abroad. In the face of these changes, what are the opportunities and challenges for counties?

The New Jersey Association of Counties partnering with PS&S, is pleased to invite you to participate in a conference with the State's leading experts to glimpse the future of trade and travel and its implications for the local and regional economies.

All proceeds will be allocated to the NJAC Foundation a (501c3), the educational arm of the New Jersey Association of Counties
